

Cypress Pine

Callitris gracilis

Large Tree

Native Evergreen

Flowering: Subtle

Colour

Prefers well drained soils, drought resistant and long lived.

The trunk is a dark colour with rough bark and the foliage is a bright refreshing green and the small leaves are scale like in whorls.

Commonly attaining 10 metres in height, can grow to 15 metres in wetter environments.

Suitable for shelter, shade or windbreak, or as a feature tree in large gardens. It is an important plant for food and shelter for many bird species, including black cockatoo's.
